Lucas debunks the long held myth that Sherman burned Columbia. The "honor" of the burning goes to Wade Hampton (CSA) who ordered firing debris in the streets to make it appear to Sherman's approaching Army that the city was on fire. However, the fires get out of hand due to strong winds and many buildings caught fire.

The destruction of Atlanta begins - HISTORY

Sherman's March to the Sea was a military campaign of the American Civil War conducted through Georgia from November 15 until December 21, 1864, by Maj. Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman of the Union Army. The campaign began with Sherman's troops leaving the captured city of Atlanta on November 15 and ended with the capture of the port of Savannah on December 21. His forces followed a "scorched earth" policy, destroying military targets as well

Sherman's March to the Sea - Wikipedia

Columbia, the capital city of South Carolina, was an important political and supply center for the Confederate States Army during the American Civil War. Much of the town was destroyed during occupation by Union forces under Major General William T. Sherman during the Carolinas Campaign in the last months of the war. Sherman was accused in print almost immediately of having deliberately burned the city, which he denied. Modern historians say that multiple causes were responsible.

Wikipedia

Despite becoming repetitive after a while, this book thoroughly debunks the notion that Sherman's army alone was responsible for the burning of Columbia. The fire that consumed a significant part (though not as much as you may have heard before) of the city was the result of many factors that coincided with the arrival of Sherman's army.
